The Yellow Fever Outbreak.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., September 25—The weather is clear and cool. Dr. Harris reported a yellow fever epidemic at Fernandina quite the opposite at that place. Steps will be taken to guard the city against the influx of new comers and also the fever by increasing the sanitary [illegible] Thirty-two cases are reported this morning. No official reports of deaths, but there are known to have been some and Thomas John T. Burch, one of the board of public works.

MEMPHIS, Tenn., September 25—The panicky feeling of the past few days has given way to a more rational view of the situation. Some who were best to leave are applying for a pass to return.

DECATUR, Ala., September 25—Four new cases of yellow fever in the last 24 hours. No death.

FERNANDINA, Fla., September 25—Twelve new cases here, three at Hilliard ville.

JACKSON, Miss., September 25—No deaths or new cases since Sunday morning.

A special from Decatur, Ala., says: Four new cases have been reported since 10 on yesterday, three others sick and under observation. Of the cases two deaths were reported to the health officer this morning—father and son recently from Brownsville, Tenn. The relief committee is under a splendid system of organization, with plenty of nurses. There is still a chance of communicating to or from Decatur, save by telegraph. No mails leave here and what is thrown off is not opened, save letters for parties personally known to Acting Postmaster Thomas the postmaster having fled for his life. A refugee from Decatur has yellow fever at Opelika.

Hope Reviving.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., September 25—The situation here to night is practically unchanged except that the hopeful feeling that the worst is over continues. [illegible] are said [illegible] very rapidly the type of disease appears to be milder even than before our equinoctial storms and while many people are sick the death rate continues low. The official bulletin for the past 24 hours reports 142 cases, of which 55 are among colored people. Only four deaths are reported.

[illegible] at Memphis.

MEMPHIS, September 25—There has been great excitement all the afternoon over the report of a case of yellow fever existing in the city limits. Physicians in attendance on the case have not agreed on the nature of the case, but will make a critical examination in the morning. Meantime several families are all ready to leave. The report of the physicians to be made to-morrow will be awaited with eager interest by over sixty thousand people.

The First Frost.

ROME, Ga., September 25—The North Georgia and Alabama industrial industrial exposition will open on Monday, Oct. 1. Governor Gordon, Henry Grady and Speaker Carlisle will be present and make addresses.

NEW YORK, September 25—The stock market was firm with a portion of yesterday's losses recovered. Union Pacific, Louisville and Nashville, Reading and Northern Pacific were all prominent but in none of them were the movements of special importance except in the last. Union Pacific moved up and the general list followed. The market closed quiet and weak. Governments were dull and steady to firm.

The talented entertainment the opera house this evening for the benefit of the B [illegible] will be given next young men in the city will take part, and as they have been working hard for some time to make the entertainment a success there will likely be an entertainment worth seeing Outside of the entertainment itself, the object for which it is given should also be sufficient to sell every seat in the opera house The entertainment should appeal to the generosity of the citizens of Colorado Springs as [illegible] have been proposed The sale of seats has already been quite large

We are glad to see that the controversy between the republican daily papers in Denver has almost ceased. It is poor policy to quarrel in the face of the enemy.

The democratic candidate for state treasurer has declined the nomination. This was almost the only candidate on the ticket who could bring the ticket great local support.

The effect of Patterson's nomination has passed away. Republicans generally feel that Cooper is the safer man to vote for and that there is no reason for a republican vote for Patterson.

The New York Tribune shows "ghoulish glee" over the fact that in Orange county, New York, a flag has been raised for Hill, Harrison and Morton. It ought to be a matter of sorrow. It is much better that Hill should continue a democrat.

The low tariff democrats of Philadelphia have decided to favor Mr. Randall's renomination, holding that the tariff issue is definitely settled. Mr. Randall has expressed the opinion that the defeat of Cleveland would be a great calamity. This is touching.

We have received some very interesting papers prepared by the American Protective Tariff league, with offices at 23 West Twenty third street, New York. Many of the documents are prepared by writers of eminent authority, and will be of great interest in the present campaign.

To all objections to the democratic party made in 1884 the answer was made that Cleveland was better than his party and above it. But the events of the last two years have shown that he is with his party and of it. He is placed in the field by the same party that nominates Hill for governor.

It is interesting to note some of the New York independent papers that are supporting Cleveland on the tariff issue instead of Hill. The New York Times says:

From such uncleanliness as the New York democracy [illegible] at Buffalo yesterday there is but one possible solution—the fires of defeat. In nominating David B. Hill for governor the democratic convention did not merely touch the pitch and pass by with [illegible] garments, it went bodily down into the pool of defilement and wallowed [illegible] the first time [illegible] the party intrusted the task of choosing its candidate to its legal members. The action of the convention [illegible] sellers, gamblers and [illegible] bosses and its proceedings were [illegible] goaded by men of evil repute who [illegible] to the Hall took care of the [illegible] was done with the most [illegible] was offered to the [illegible] strict party usage controls not only [illegible] every honorable [illegible] of members were ignored. [illegible] great party there was the [illegible] leaders [illegible] community [illegible] The task set before the [illegible] New York, and to [illegible] they will have the [illegible] campaign effort and [illegible] votes of the independents and of a [illegible] great number of democrats of character and standing who are disgusted with Hill's nomination.

The New York Post [illegible] and says:

It has been proved at a public investigation and is admitted on all sides that Hon. Hill received [illegible] in connection with the [illegible] which he made for [illegible] Hill's own statement [illegible] whether Hill has [illegible] If [illegible] the fact [illegible] If the [illegible] think that [illegible] from the [illegible] with Mr. Hill [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]
